

Albedo Project: This long-term project explores controls on the planetary albedo, with a particular emphasis on clouds and moist processes. At various stages of the project different tools will be used, ranging from analysis of high dimensional data sets and simulation fields, to targeted computation on a variety of scales.