HANAMI is the next generation of the HPC alliance between Europe and Japan. Its activities on porting code and testing applications will be collected into a common benchmark HPCW hosted at DKRZ. This project will be the host for collaboration of the international partner institutions.